Opinion Libraries can help end the culture wars. That's why they're under fire.

Nothing threatens authoritarianism like a quiet place to explore knowledge.

By Annalee Newitz

July 24, 2024 at 6:30 a.m. EDT

There is an organized cultural assault on libraries in America, and the casualties are piling up. Fueled by “parents’ rights” groups like Moms for Liberty, public libraries saw the number of titles targeted for censorship surge 65 percent from 2022 to 2023, according to the American Library Association. Many school librarians have quit, exhausted by harassment and even death threats; during the 2021-2022 school year, 35 percent of districts nationwide had no librarian at all. At one library in Idaho, the situation became so dire that it announced it no longer permits minors on the premises without an adult (or a signed waiver), fearing prosecution under a new state law that levies fines for books deemed unacceptable for children.

Though book bans have been a familiar tactic in culture wars, today we’re witnessing an attack on libraries themselves as social institutions. There’s a reason for this escalation: For those trying to move the United States toward a less democratic, more authoritarian model of governance, there is power to be gained by sowing information chaos. Libraries, on the other hand, are free, publicly funded places that exist to clear away the fog of uncertainty by providing patrons with access to primary sources, a diversity of recorded experiences and a calm place to consider them.

In my new book, “Stories Are Weapons,” I investigate the origins of culture war. This form of conflict has its roots in military psyops, or weaponized messages that aim to intimidate, confuse and demoralize an adversary. During the Cold War, however, military tactics spilled over into our cultural debates. Sen. Joseph McCarthy held hearings in which he accused Americans of slipping communist messages into everything from popular movies to high school textbooks. English professor and conservative pundit E. Merrill Root took the fight to schools, pushing for book bans as a member of the group Operation Textbook and describing how educators could stop “collectivism” by purging libraries of subversive materials.

If psychological warfare planted the seeds for the culture war, the key to ending it might lie in that history, too. In 1948, when an Army psychological operations expert produced a guide to psychological war, it included instructions on how to achieve postwar psychological disarmament. “The free circulation of books” was key.

In the culture war, libraries with free access to a full range of books can light the way toward psychological peace. They provide us with a mental model for a public sphere in which Americans debate each other as equals to reach a resolution or compromise.

In a library, people with questions can ask a librarian for help finding answers. Instead of telling a curious patron what to think, the librarian will point out titles that might help them learn enough to figure it out for themselves. Library materials are organized systematically, so it's easy to locate what the person seeks; there's no need to fight through a curtain of chaotic advertisements or AI-generated misinformation. Once our patron has found their materials, they can absorb them quietly, with no distractions. There are no signs popping up every few minutes to redirect their attention, encouraging them to look at things they never asked for. The patron's journey through the library is guided by their own quest for knowledge.

How can we defend libraries without ourselves becoming combatants in the culture war? According to the organization Authors Against Book Bans, one of the most effective strategies is for authors to show up at local meetings of school and library boards. When people can actually talk to authors, the experience is reassuring; they realize that writers are just ordinary human beings with stories to tell.

Another strategy is to encourage concerned citizens to actually read the books that are being challenged. That sounds pretty basic, but Moms for Liberty and other groups often ask followers to contest books based on a few inflammatory excerpts.

When times get truly tough, however, it might be time for librarians to go rogue. The Internet Archive, an independent digital lending library, makes banned books available for online checkout — it even has a special collections page with the latest challenged titles, for easy access. Nonprofits and bookstores are also sending free books to people in states where they are banned. Nobody is forcing these books on anyone. Pro-library activists are simply circulating the titles so that people can read them and decide for themselves what to think.

In his book "Palaces for the People," sociologist Eric Klinenberg calls libraries "social infrastructure." He's referring to the way these places offer physical shelter and calm, as well as an intangible sense of social stability and community. They are material and psychological spaces that hold us together when we feel lost or curious, lonely or adventurous. Yes, the library might contain propaganda. But it contains the voices of many people, from many historical eras and far-flung places, and those voices wait quietly on the shelves to be heard. That's because the library is a place of information without coercion.

We need to preserve our libraries and the books they hold, partly to figure out who we are and where we came from. But perhaps more pressingly, we need to preserve them as both a refuge from the culture wars and a template to rebuild a cultural life together when this war is over. Without them, we may have no way to teach our children to share ideas, instead of battling each other forever.

Call to order and introductions: Regular session was called to order at 3:30 p.m. by Chair, Rick Osen.

Approve/modify agenda: Deborra moved to approve the agenda. Kendra seconded. Motion carried.

Public comment: No public comment.

Consent agenda: Kristy noticed a large uptick in the number of items removed from the collection. Jon replied that he normally runs the process monthly but was catching up after several missed months. Rebecca highlighted that in the Budget to Actual, this is the first time in 2024 we've tipped into the positive, after a lot of expenses at the beginning of the year. Kristy noted a significant increase in new borrower registration – up 20%. Kristy moved to approve the June 18, 2024 Regular Meeting minutes, the July 8, 2024 Special Meeting minutes and the June 2024 performance and activity measures and financial reports. Deborra seconded. Motion carried.

Board Chair report:

- Rick thanked the Board for the robust conversation at the July 8 special meeting regarding the 2025 budget.
- The Library's 2025 budget requests were submitted, and we expect to know more in late August/early September. The Mayor's budget is due to City Council by October 1. It will be finalized by Council in December.

Board member reports:

- No reports.

City Council liaison report:

- No report.

Friends of BPL report:

- Carol Comeau reported that the Friends are on hiatus between sales. She reminded everyone that there is a book cart at the Central Library in the small alcove on the main floor by the book return. The Friends go through those donations to determine which items will be set aside for the sale, and which items will be distributed into the community through Little Free Libraries, the Food Bank and Tiny Home communities.
- The Friends go through all donations. Children's and Teen items are set aside for staff to review for inclusion or for Summer Reading prizes.

Director report:

- Rebecca reported that the Library has had two occurrences of people reporting credit card charges from the payee Bellingham Public Library with a Newmarket address. It appears someone is fraudulently using our name. As an alert, we will be publishing a social media post and including information in our August newsletter.
- Next Tuesday, July 23, BTV will be filming staff and Library families as part of our efforts to raise funds with the Community Foundation for the lower-level renovation.
- A Federal Appropriation for exterior upgrades to the Central Library is still alive in the House, but it has been reduced from 2 million to 250K. Rebecca is exploring advocacy opportunities on the Senate side. Representative Larsen will be visiting the Central Library on July 17. Rebecca will be providing a tour of the exterior of the Library and will have the opportunity to ask questions about effective advocacy.
- In August, Katie, Rob, Bethany and Rebecca will be sharing with the Board highlights from the 2024 ALA Conference in San Diego.
- Interviews were held for Wendy's position. We had a great pool of candidates and we're hoping to have someone in place on September 1, so they will have one month of training with Wendy.

2nd Quarter Action Plan report

- Rebecca presented an Action Plan update. Highlights from Q2 include:
  - Kate Dunphy has made significant progress in building and implementing a robust training/conference system for library employees.
  - Annette reported that she's working on a language access plan with colleagues across the City, and that significant progress was made in Q2. She noted that Spanish is the only language that meets the Federal standard for translation services in Bellingham.
  - Jon reported that our Automated Materials Handler (the machine that checks in and sorts incoming physical items) received additional components in May. This was a one-time expenditure for new parts, with an accompanying increase in our annual maintenance subscription.
  - The Central Library Renovation item under Thrive and Grow was moved to 2025.
  - The Bellis Fair Branch 1-year evaluation was completed. Bellis Fair is a success!

2025 Revenue forecast

- Finance Director Andy Asbjornsen gave a presentation: Finance Update – 2024 Year-to-Date Review (see Attachment #1, following minutes). Andy noted that he gave this presentation to the City Council on Monday, July 15. Q& A followed with questions also answered by City Deputy Administrator Forrest Longman.

Q & A with Mayor Kim Lund

- Following introductions of the Library Board and staff, Mayor Kim Lund introduced herself and answered questions from the Library Board.

New Business:

- Kristy inquired about how the hiring process is going for the vacant Security Attendant position. Katrina reported that interviews are being held July 17.

Agenda items for next meeting:

- August Regular Board Meeting: Sarah Chaplin will be presenting the Public Records Act training in person.

Meeting adjourned at 5:08 p.m.

Next Regular Library Board Meeting – August 20, 2024 – Central Library Lecture Room – 3:30 p.m.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT FOR August 20, 2024

As summer draws to a close, I wanted to take a moment to recognize all Library staff for their support of, enthusiasm for, and FUN with Summer Reading. It's been joyful to see everyone wear their Summer Reading t-shirts and celebrate completed summer reading goals with children, teens, and adults in our community. Special thanks to the Friends of the Library for their funding support of this signature Library program. (Rebecca Judd, Library Director)

WELCOME & INCLUDE

Note of appreciation for Library staff: This email of appreciation from a patron was shared with everyone at the Library and is a wonderful testament to the important community-building work our staff do every day: "On Tuesday [July 23], I arrived at the downtown library a bit before 10:00am. As I sat in my car, I watched the crowd grow and grow. I watched the people gathering, all eager to enter your library. As I sat and waited, I noticed the crowd was an amazing mix of our community. When the door opened, I entered with this colorful crowd. We were greeted by your staff, lined up with smiles on faces. I heard many staff welcome us all, one even asked if anyone needed help. Your staff's friendly and welcoming greeting made my day. I imagine their welcoming attitude made a lot of people's day. I want you and your staff to know you are doing an amazing job! Thank you for all you do, especially for making the public library a true place for the public. I love the Bellingham Public Library!!" (Rebecca Judd, Library Director)

Appreciation for Bernice's contribution to Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI): I received an email from three Bellingham residents complimenting Bernice's outstanding work on DEI in the Children's Library. An excerpt from the email read, "...I have been consistently impressed by the thoughtful curation and the inclusive approach that Bernice and her team have brought to the selection of children's literature. Her efforts have not only enriched the library's collection but have also created a welcoming space where children and families from diverse backgrounds can see themselves represented and celebrated. Bernice's work is exemplary, and her dedication to fostering a more inclusive environment is both inspiring and impactful. Her recent recommendations have made a significant difference in our reading experience as an interracial family, and I know this sentiment is shared by many others in our community." I heartily agree with this email and thank Bernice for her continued passion and dedication to EDI in our collections, spaces and programs. (Bethany Hogland, Deputy Director)

Public Services Staffing Changes: Joshua Kinney joined BPL as our new Security and Information Attendant on August 16. We are so happy to have him on the team! Security and Information Attendant Ethan Evans will be taking on a new role outside the City of Bellingham. Starting in September, Ethan will begin working for Lake Whatcom Center, training to be a Library Embedded HEART Specialist. We look forward to working with him in this new role. (Katrina Buckman, Head of Public Services)

Library Assistant team: We recently sent out a request for interest to Library Assistant staff in order to fill an upcoming vacancy in one of our 25-hour positions. We expect to move an existing staff member into the vacancy at the beginning of September. We are currently contacting external candidates from a list created in the spring to fill several vacancies in non-benefitted positions. We hope to start new staff in early to mid-September. (Jen Vander Ploeg, Head of Operations)

Welcome to Madeline!: Madeline Rosenvinge will be joining the Library on September 3 as the new Administrative Assistant. She has an MBA from Western and has held positions as Director of Operations for Phoebe Wahl & Co., Business Research Analyst for WWU's Small Business Development Center, Operations Assistant for Common Threads Farm, and Assistant Manager at Ragfinery. She currently serves as the Board President for Ragfinery. In her spare time, Madeline enjoys "sewing, tending my indoor and outdoor plants, hiking, and reading young adult fantasy fiction!" Madeline is excited to join the Library team and to learn all she can from Wendy. Wendy's last day will be September 30. (Rebecca Judd, Library Director)

ACCESS & OPPORTUNITY

Barkley ADA Door Opener: The contract to purchase and install a door opener at Barkley Library was recently signed-off and sent to the contractor. A contract for the electrical work needed is already in place. We are working with the contractors to get the equipment ready and schedule the installation. (Jen Vander Ploeg, Head of Operations)

Newsbank Security Incident: Another vendor, Newsbank, has had services interrupted by 'unauthorized access' that encrypted some of their systems. On July 1 they stopped loading new newspaper content for a time and also took their statistics portal offline. Some new content is again available in a timely and consistent fashion, but stats have not returned. (Jon McConnel, Head of Digital Services)

Newsbank and Cascadia Daily News: In the course of investigating the Newsbank trouble, we learned that one of our Newsbank subscriptions had stopped providing new content in March. After more than a year of consistent access, the issues stopped with no warning. We asked Newsbank to investigate, and they reported that Cascadia changed the vendor that handles the full-image version of the paper, and this disrupted provision of the files to Newsbank. They are now working on restarting the flow from the new PDF vendor. (Jon McConnel, Head of Digital Services)

READ & LEARN

Craft Fair success: The Children's Craft Fair at the Central Library on Friday, July 26 was a smashing success! We are looking forward to the 2nd annual Children's Craft Fair at the Bellis Fair Mall on Friday, August 16 from 5-7pm. We are thankful for our community of young crafters and entrepreneurs, their supportive caregivers, and the community for making the time to attend the events and support the sellers. (Bethany Hogle, Deputy Library Director)

Issues that matter: As part of National Recovery Month in September, the BPL Adult Programming Committee is working on details for the following major event. Please mark your calendars to join us and help us share the word!

What is Addiction? Plain Talk for Our Community
Thursday, Sept. 12, 7 – 8:30 pm, doors open at 6:30
Bellingham High School, 2020 Cornwall Ave.
Free, registration not required

Addiction touches the lives of millions of people every year. We hear about it, we experience it, but we don't openly talk about it. Join local expert Dr. Shannon Boustead in this all-community event to learn the basics of addiction science and hear from community members in recovery about their lived experiences. All are welcome. No registration required.

For more in-depth information on this topic, including risk factors, prevention and recovery strategies, use your Bellingham Public Library card to download the audiobook Un-Addiction: 6 Mind Changing Conversations That Could Save a Life by Nzinga Harrison, MD with Lynya Floyd.

Hosted by Bellingham Public Library, City of Bellingham Mayor's Office, and Whatcom County Health and Community Services, in collaboration with Compass Health, PeaceHealth and Whatcom Community College. Funding provided by the Friends of the Bellingham Public Library.

(Annette Bagley, Head of Community Relations)

Community Conversations at the Library: The Community Conversations series will continue this fall. "The Art of Community" will be held in the Central Library Lecture Room on Tuesdays, Sept. 24, Oct. 8, and Oct. 22, 2:30 – 4 p.m., in partnership with the Whatcom Dispute Resolution Center and the League of Women Voters. All are welcome to join in these lively discussion events. (Annette Bagley, Head of Community Relations)

INFORM & INVOLVE

September is National Recovery Month: In addition to hosting a community-wide event on September 12, BPL will table at the NAMI Whatcom / MAD HOPE Resource Fair Sept. 8, and at the WA State Dept. of Health "Facing Fentanyl Together" Resource Fair Sept. 20. (Annette Bagley, Head of Community Relations)

Skillshare Updates: Several new agencies will present Skillshare programs this fall, including Bellingham Veterans Center, NWYS Queer Youth Center, Whatcom Community College Pathways to Community Education, and Road 2 Home. Community member Sophie Timin will also discuss a Social Identity Approach to Health and Wellbeing. (Annette Bagley, Head of Community Relations)

Update on new events calendar system: We are on track to go live with the new events calendar, room reservation, and museum pass system during the last week in August. Most of the setup is complete; content transfer is underway (a manual process – many thanks to Community Relations Specialist Jenni Johnson!); and staff training resources are under development. It has been a busy month for the project team! (Jon McConnel, Head of Digital Services)

THRIVE & GROW

Central Library renovation: The contract for additional services has been sent to architectural firm Miller Hull for signatures. It will need to be signed by various parties in the City before work can begin. This contract includes some design work for the HVAC system to be directed by Public Works, as well as the exterior conceptual design and cost estimating that will be managed by the Library. (Jen Vander Ploeg, Head of Operations)

End to curbside on Sept 21: Public Service Staff have been happy to provide curbside pick-up service for the past four years. We are grateful to have had the resources necessary to extend this service to the community for as long as we have. As demand is waning and after careful consideration, we will be ending this service and focusing our efforts on other community needs. Our last day of curbside pick-up service will be September 21, 2024. (Katrina Buckman, Head of Public Services)

Update on notices: Two previously mentioned changes to patron notices will be rolling out soon for both BPL and WCLS. First, billing notices will be available through US mail, email, and text instead of being limited to only US mail. This has been driven by WCLS in an effort to reduce the cost of mailing notices. Second, all of our notices will be available in Spanish. Both systems have been working to improve access to library services for patrons with low English proficiency. (Jon McConnel, Head of Digital Services)

Respectfully submitted,

Level of Service update: Library Materials

Proposal for Board consideration
 August 20, 2024

When the Level of Service standard for Library Materials Expenditures/Capita was adopted in 2017, it was noted that “numbers will need to be adjusted in the future to reflect changes in costs of materials and/or processing.” This proposal outlines a methodology to adjust the Level of Service Standard for Library Materials Expenditures/Capita for inflation and population growth. It is recommended that these figures be updated every 3 years.

Goal: continual funding progress toward Medium (Operational) or High (Optimal) standard, adjusted for inflation and population growth.

Standard: Library Materials Expenditures/Capita (adopted 03/21/2017)

Low: $5.00                      Medium: $7.50                      High: $10.00
